Observing nature can be entertaining and informative. Nature has been speid upon and studied through the ages and has taught ladys, gentlemen, and familes many lessons. We have coiped things we see happening in nature to make us healthyer and friendlyer. We have pityd people who take no notice of nature. Some of the prettyiest and funniest things can be found in nature—look at a sunset, or look at baby birds, each noiser than the other, opening their mouths wide to be fed. Many people have found that some of their happist times have been spent observing nature.
